The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

Lawbreaking is a Crime

Supervisor Lou Conde was stabbed in San Diego. He survived!
Sal Mineo was stabbed in Hollywood. He died!

Before, after and between these above crimes of violence, thousands of others have been committed.

If these criminals are caught, there is a possibility that the penalty will be relatively small and in some cases, none at all.

Most citizens believe this to be wrong and over the years have voiced that opinion. And today the voices grow louder.

But the bleeding hearts of today's society have been able to hold off the forces of quick and meaningful justice. Bleeding hearts have developed the philosophy that "society produces criminals" and therefore, criminals should be "rehabilitated" rather than penalized.

The need for proper penalties for violent crime has reached, finally, two presidential candidates. Both President Ford and strong-running Ronald Reagan are urging proper penalties against those who commit crimes.

What could be fairer?

If a criminal rapes your daughter or murders your neighbor, he shouldn't be sentenced to three months in a poetry reading class. He should be removed from the streets. Too bad if he is thrown into contact with other criminals. If he is smart enough to learn from them, he should be smart enough to see that crime is a losing game—if the penalty is severe enough.

A good guide to effective justice is the Lindbergh Kidnap Law. It provided the death penalty for kidnapers. Kidnaping stopped! When the death penalty was lifted, kidnaping became profitable and hundreds of innocent victims again suffered.

The Ford-Reagan concern may be the point at which the easy-out crime syndrome is being reversed. When fully operative, the innocent will again be protected and the criminal properly penalized.

In line with the "get tougher" policy was a program announced recently by California Attorney General Evelle J. Younger.

On burglaries:
"We believe that professional burglars should be removed from the streets and Senate Bill 237 (Carpenter) mandates actual prison confinement for persons convicted of burglary who have had two prior burglary convictions.

"... burglars are treated leniently by State courts (431,000 burglaries in 1974). The majority ... even with prior records, receive probation ..."

On Determinate sentences:
For years prison terms have been set by the California Adult Authority rather than by judges. Terms are set on the CCA's decision that the prisoner is "rehabilitated" but Younger says, "this system has failed ... and dangerous criminals are released only to immediately commit another crime."

Younger said he is sponsoring legislation to substitute a law where every crime is punished by a fixed prison sentence. "The indeterminate policy," Younger said, "has virtually no deterrent effect ... fixed number of years in prison ... does."

On Plea bargaining:
Plea bargaining is the practice of encouraging a criminal to plead guilty to a lesser offense than originally charged in return for a guilty plea to the lesser offense.

This often results in a defendant pleading guilty to a crime he did not commit in return for the prosecution dropping charges arising from the crime he did commit.

"It breeds contempt for our judicial system ... the system must be changed," he said. "The sentence imposed should not be the result of a 'bargain' but of the court's evaluation of what is appropriate under the circumstances."

On consolidation of pretrial and trial motions:
Younger cited the Charles Manson and Angela Davis cases as examples on how to delay cases which result in increased costs inherent in an inefficient judicial system.

One major cause of delay is the current practice of allowing pretrial and trial motions to be made in piecemeal fashion.

"We hope to eliminate this tactic by requiring all motions to be heard at an omnibus pretrial hearing. (It would) increase fairness of our system and save taxpayers substantial sums of money."

Readers should express their views to their lawmakers concerning crime.

To help make your decision, a recent study showed that 8 out of 10 charged with armed robbery are repeaters.

And finally, don't let your neighborly sociologist tell you how bad prison is for criminals. Ask instead how bad freedom of the criminal is for society—particularly you!

Ronald Reagan on War

All of us denounce war—all of us consider it man's greatest stupidity. And yet wars happen and they involve the most passionate lovers of peace because there are still in the world those who set the price for peace at death or enslavement and the price is too high.

SDG&E Awaits PUC OK For Natural Gas Refunds

San Diego Gas & Electric Co. filed a plan with the Public Utilities Commission to refund amounts collected from gas customers as a result of Southern California Gas Co.'s contract with Atlantic Richfield for natural gas exploration in Alaska.

ARCO and S. Cal Gas terminated the controversial contract January 12. SDG&E applied to the PUC two days later to reduce gas rates to San Diego users by $2.5 million annually.

The action canceled a December 7 increase granted by the PUC to offset the higher gas costs passed on to SDG&E by SCGC.

If its refund plan is approved, SDG&E will start making refunds in April. The refund will appear as a credit to the bill of each affected customer.

Since the December 7 increase did not apply to residential and general service customers who used 75 therms or less per month, those customers will not receive a refund.

Customers who are entitled to a refund but have terminated service will receive a credit to their closed account. If the bill already has been paid, a check will be sent to the last known address of the customer, provided that the refund is at least 25 cents.

COOKIE SALES START — Those delicious Girl Scout Cookies are now being peddled by the likes of Deanna Oswalt, junior scout, and sister Danita, a cadet, who are seen making a sales pitch to Susie Erault, a Helix High student. Orders are being taken through February and cookie delivery and booth sales will take place March 26 through April 4.

Santee Seen Top Priority In School Bond Election

It appears more certain this week that a lease/revenue bond election for additional facilities in the Grossmont Union High School District will appear on the June 8, California primary ballot in East County.

Dr. John C. Barrons, the District's assistant superintendent for business, introduced a timeline for the development of the election issue at a February meeting of the District governing board.

Still undecided is exactly what voters will be asked to approve, however Dr. Barrons said that the first item of priority will be a new high school in Santee to alleviate severe overcrowding conditions. Extensive growth in the Santana High School area has forced that school into operating on double sessions for five years.

No. 2 Priority

Second in priority will be the completion of Valhalla High School. Delays in construction of the controversial school led to inflationary building cost spirals which forced the District to cut back on the size of the building.

Valhalla's original design capacity was 2500 students, but the finished product is equipped for only 2000. Present enrollment is 2300 and may go even higher next year, depending on the number of inter-district transfers requested, Barrons said.

Grossmont Trustees included a provision to grant transfers to students who were shuffled out of their school district through a motion which changed school boundaries approved in January.

Skyline on Ice

Barrons said that chances were slim that new facilities for Skyline Continuation School would be included in the election item.

GUHSD owns a 30-acre site in Casa de Oro set aside for construction of a new Skyline campus, but Barrons said that board members haven't looked favorably on that project being included in the election.

A motion to initiate the lease/revenue bond election will be made March 8 if Barron's time table is kept. That would leave a month for preparing timelines for marketing bonds and construction schedule and two months for campaign activities.

Lease/revenue bond legislation demands that expenditures of funds from bond sales be clearly delineated before the election. Unlike a general bond election, the District may not reallocate funds after the election.

LG School District Gets 1st Appraisal in 30 Yrs.

The Lemon Grove School District received its first professional appraisal of insured values in nearly 20 years, it was reported by Paul Reynolds at a recent meeting of the District Board of Trustees.

Reynolds, assistant superintendent for business, breathed a sigh of relief in reporting to the Board that the District would need only seven per cent more insurance. He feared the figure would be as high as 20 per cent.

It was the first appraisal conducted by a professional firm since 1947. Since then, the District and representatives from its insurance company had estimated values.

The appraisal, completed by M&S Appraisal Systems, showed that the school district needed insurance to cover $6,116,360 in buildings and equipment. It had previously been covered for losses up to $5,719,230. Hence the need for $397,000 additional coverage.

$425 Increase

"This will raise our insurance premium by $425," Reynolds said. The annual premium at present is "around $7,000," he said.

Reynolds reported that there were no surprises in the study which lists about 25,000 items, except that the estimated value of the district's computerized accounting system was much lower than expected. M&S appraised the system at

Musical Burglar

A thief opened the window of Lawrence Gilbert Pauline's auto with a coathanger February 19 and removed from the car a clarinet worth $252.

Also taken was a pair of prescription glasses.

Pauline, who lives at 8838 Grenridge in Spring Valley, was in his home when the loss occurred.

BURGLAR'S TARGET — Lemon Grove "porno library" suffered a loss of $1,315 in erotica when it was burglarized last week, police records show. PW's Adult Book Store, 1501 Skyline dr., owned by PEARRE Walter Jones, of San Diego, lost 104 pornographic books valued at $365; 14 8mm color porno film "Pretty Girl", $350, and 30 assorted porno films, $380. Jones also reported that various items and contraptions having to do with the male reproduction organs were also taken. He listed these as: organ enlarger kit, $21; 1 bottle Male "Organ Power" capsules, $5.50; 6 bottles "Orgy Jell", $24; 1 bottle "Exciter" capsules $7.50; 2 tubes "Stay Up", $90 and various other paraphernalia in the above categories, $140.

Weekly Car Cruise Brings Arrests, Citations

Lemon Grove's Broadway was cleaner than it usually is on Friday — the day after the congregation of car cruise buffs in the stretch between Imperial and Grove streets.

If there were fewer autos parked along both sides of the thoroughfare, it was not discernible.

But there was almost no rubbish in the parking area on Friday. The week before, the street was a "mess", so called by sheriff's deputies who were called by business firms to hear complaints about the crowded conditions in the parking areas and the trash left behind by the cruisers.

More Police

Police were out in greater numbers Thursday. The California Highway Patrol had seven officers there who wrote an undetermined number of citations. Sheriff's deputies were also there as they became available from other assignments. They arrested two for an auto theft (one was a juvenile) and cited four for speed and drink related offenses.

Sheriff's Patrol Sgt. R. P. Rickley said that there was no complaint Friday regarding trash nor cruiser congregating. But that doesn't infer that police observation would be relaxed, he said.

Disassociated

The originator of the Thursday night cruises, the Road Runners, had disassociated themselves with the Thursday night gatherings and had distributed flyers disclaiming any connection. Members of the Road Runners Thursday night urged cruisers to cease gathering in Lemon Grove.

Road Runners assigned their own members to clean up after the cruisers departed although none had taken part in the gathering.

The problem, from a police point of view, is that the parking strip on both sides of Broadway is privately owned and many of the laws regarding public property do not apply. The U.S. Constitution guarantees the right of peaceful assembly without regard for number.

Better Behavior

Sgt. Rickley said the group was better behaved than the week before.

Linn to Vacate Grove School Board Seat

John Linn is expected to tender his resignation soon from the Lemon Grove school board, he told the governing board at a meeting Tuesday evening.

The resignation creates an empty seat on the board which it is obligated to fill by either of two options. The governing board may appoint someone to fill the remainder of Linn's term (which ends in March 1977) or hold a special election to fill the seat for that period.

Earliest election day would be the June 8 statewide general election.

Board members hedged on holding an election and expressed general approval for the appointment option, noting it would save the District an estimated $2,000 in election expenses for a candidate who would serve less than a year.

Petition Possible

An appointee may not be seated on the board for 30 days, during which time voters in the district may petition for a special election.

The petition requires 5 per cent of the registered voters in the last governing board election which amounts to 78 according to information furnished the board by the County.

Linn is buying a home in Spring Valley which he hopes to occupy by late March (see related story Page 6). His wife Marilyn has also been active in Lemon Grove community affairs including the current movement for Lemon Grove cityhood.

Because the area is established for parking and is privately owned, there are few charges the police may make. Numbers is not an offense. Blocking in such a manner as to prevent emergency vehicles from entering, is illegal. So is loud and boisterous behavior. But going the wrong direction is not citable.

Rickley noted that cruise clubs are attempting to cooperate. The cruisers showing up presently are unattached, he said.

Sheriff's deputies will be on hand again tonight.

Rep. Van Deerlin Seeks 8th Term

Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-San Diego, a congressman since 1963, will seek an eighth House term in this year's elections.

A former newsman for television and newspapers, Van Deerlin last year took over the chairmanship of the House Commerce Subcommittee on Consumer Protection and Finance. In this capacity, he has advanced major bills including proposals for establishing a national no-fault automobile insurance system and for keeping dangerous chemicals off the market.

On the full Commerce Committee, Van Deerlin ranks sixth among the 29 Democratic members.

Easy Winner

In previous bids for re-election, Van Deerlin has won easily, usually with majorities of 70 per cent or more.

His congressional district, California's 42nd, includes East, Southeast and downtown San Diego, plus the communities of Lemon Grove, Spring Valley, National City, Chula Vista, Imperial Beach, Coronado, San Ysidro and Bonita.

Old Time Days Group Prepare For April 3

Preparations are continuing for the 13th annual Old Time Days Parade, the OTD Assn. announced this week. The parade takes place down Lemon Grove's main street, Broadway, on Saturday, April 3. Festivities will begin at 11 a.m.

Grand Marshal for the parade this year is world famous rodeo performer Casey Tibbs. Tibbs is known not only for his feats as a rodeo performer but also as a teacher to many famous people of the rugged sport.

In conjunction with the parade, many other events are planned for the entire week in Lemon Grove. A community square dance will be held on April 10 and a horse show, scheduled for April 10 and 11, will highlight the annual Old Time Days activities.

Last year there were 140 entries in the parade and a crowd of over 30,000 witnessed the beautiful pageantry.

Information regarding the parade or activities held in conjunction with the event can be obtained by calling the Old Time Days Assn. at 469-9621.

Pattons Feted On 25th Anniv.

Relatives and friends gathered Saturday at the Admiral Kidd Officers Club in San Diego to toast Farrel L. and Jane Patton in honor of their silver wedding anniversary.

The party was planned by daughter Gail, a Coleman College computer programming student who lives with her parents at 1380 Taft st., Lemon Grove.

The couple were married 25 years ago in Dorchester, Massachusetts while Patton was serving in the Air Force. They remained in Massachusetts about a year before moving to Southern California.

Patton is manager of administration and finance of Data Systems Services of General Dynamics. Mrs. Patton is a teacher at Patrick Henry High in San Diego.

Present at the anniversary were Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Sweat, Patton's step-father and mother, and Mrs. Patton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Casey, Lemon Grove residents since 1948.

Kin from as far away as San Francisco attended the affair held in the Club's Crystal Room.

Students Vie For $300,000 In BoA Awards

High school seniors and community college students throughout the state are now being selected to compete for nearly $300,000 in cash awards in Bank of America's annual Achievement Awards and Community College Awards programs.

School officials will nominate the initial contestants for each program's spring competition which will result in 40 high school seniors winning $1,000 awards and eight college sophomores receiving $2,000 in first prizes.

Each school will nominate one student in each of four broad categories. These students then compete against one another in a series of regional semi-finals with the winners in each category advancing to an areawide final judging.

Individual school contestants are chosen on the basis of academic record, community involvement and leadership qualities. Winners at the semi-finals and finals are determined by their performance in group discussions before a panel of judges.

Individual high school contestants will be announced March 11. The regional semi-final events will be held Wednesday, March 31. The division finals will be scheduled each week from May 6 to June 2.

College contestants will be named the first week of April. The semi-finals are scheduled for Tuesday, March 30. Finals will be held at the Beverly Hilton Hotel on April 28.

Each college participant will receive $150, each semi-finalist $250, and the three top finalists will win $2,000, $1,000 and $500 awards.

CdO School Builds Own Version Of Bicentennial Freedom Train

By Lee Karalis

Spring Valley has its own form of the American Bicentennial Freedom Train at the Early Learning Center in Casa de Oro. The Center's children, ranging in age from two through eleven, have depicted various scenes from our nation's past in the spirit of its 200th anniversary.

Among the exhibits is a Declaration of Independence worded by the children and transcribed by one of the teachers, Mrs. Beale, who originated the project.

"We don't want you (the King of England) telling us what to do," the Declaration begins. It goes on to explain why, proclaiming that "nobody is better than anybody else" and that "everybody should be nice to all other people."

Train of Thought

The project idea was inspired by the recent visit of the full-scale Freedom Train to San Diego in February.

Other exhibits display scenes of "The Mayflower," "Indians," "George Washington," "The Liberty Bell," "Betsy Ross," "Bombs Bursting in Air," "Range Lands," "Our Country's Various Flags," "The Pony Express" and "Americans Going to the Moon."

Most of the work was done by students with some art work assistance from teachers. All ages helped one another on the project though most work was done by the two- to four-year-olds.

Behavior Mod

The Early Learning Center is a private school devoted to the behavior modification teaching theory. The school's director, Ed Birdwell, feels that by modifying the child's behavior or offering alternative decisions for him to make on his own, a more mature self-reliant individual is created allowing a stabler emotional and educational make-up.

Playground policy serves up a good example.

The child who misbehaves is informed that he has made the choice to watch his playmates while sitting "on the table" in the play area rather than participate in the activities. He soon learns, said Birdwell, that he has made a poor choice, but he understands it as an error in judgment rather than a flaw in himself. Birdwell says the method saves the child from the "rotten kid" syndrome which often results from more traditional methods of discipline.

There is less likelihood of the troublesome, quarrelsome, disruptive child; rather one who likes to learn and does so quite well, Birdwell says. Birdwell is a native of the area who left to teach in Wheaton, Illinois for a number of years.

He was a teacher and principal at a school in Wheaton until he moved back to San Diego in 1969. He taught in the La Mesa-Spring Valley School District at Kempton Elementary for five years before deciding to devote all his time to his alternative school in Casa de Oro.

Summer School

The school also has a summer day camp for older children, ages five through eleven. Field trips are plentiful in the Day Camp schedule, children visiting places such as Old Town, Del Mar and Mt.

Couple to Exhibit Glass Collection

In addition to restoring their 1887 farmhouse on Central ave., Lemon Grove's Rurik and Marge Kallis are involved in another fascinating pastime. Both are avid hunters and collectors of antique glass, bottle and advertising memorabilia produced in and around San Diego at the turn of the century.

A glimpse of their findings may be seen at the Villa Montezuma Museum & Gallery (also built in 1887) at 1925 "K" st. in San Diego.

The exhibit, "Bottles, Jugs & Mugs" will be at the Villa from February 29th through March 28th.

Museum hours are 1-4:30 every Tuesday through Friday and Sunday.

The Museum telephone is 239-2211.

Palomar in the school's 42-seat bus.

Birdwell has just bought 10.5 acres next to Monte Vista High school and is optimistic about moving his Early Learning Center there as early as this fall. Enrollment for the new school will be a maximum of 400, double the present enrollment.

The seven-room school with a staff of eleven may have as many as 86 children on the grounds during various parts of any school day. During staggered recess times the children are found playing on the various swings, jungle gyms and slides, or with a variety of domestic animals on the grounds.

Birdwell has chickens, roosters, rabbits and a pony that gives rides to the children. Animals help give the children an awareness of other living beings and are a pleasant change from the normal school play area, he says.

NO CROWDS, NO WAIT — Unlike the mobs and the long waiting periods characteristic of the American Bicentennial Freedom Train's San Diego visit recently, Casa de Oro's Early Learning Center pupils Doug Edmonds, Chad Richards and Neal Svalstad gained ready access to the school's own version of the Bicentennial salute. The school's classmates designed and constructed the train's exhibits themselves with help from their teachers.

More Qualify For Federal Lunch Program

Income eligibility scales were expanded recently to qualify more children for free meals, free milk and reduced price meals furnished by school district cafeterias.

Monthly gross income levels were expanded and an annual gross income eligibility schedule was introduced so that more families in need would qualify for the federal program.

The annual gross income schedule was added to aid children whose parents may have adequate monthly income but face seasonal periods of unemployment.

Families which have difficulty covering the costs of school lunches should contact the local school board administration for information regarding eligibility. Applicants must fill out a form stating family income and employment status.

If family income is above the listed eligibility ranges, the applicant may apply under certain conditions of hardship. These include high medical bills, shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of income, special education expenses, disaster or casualty losses and unemployment.

This Week's RECIPE

Another Pitch for the Old-Fashioned Way

We've carried on a mini-rebellion in this column against modern mass produced convenience foods which, despite their handiness, wind up higher in cost and shorter on nutrition and flavor than the good old-fashioned home-cooked variety.

Today's recipe is no exception.

Just one batch of Old Fashioned Oatmeal Cookies fills the cookie jar to overflowing—one recipe makes five dozen crisp cookies. Even so, they will disappear quickly, as the combination of raisins, oatmeal, spices and dark brown sugar makes them irresistible.

Remember, the big plus with this cook-from-scratch recipe is that it insures you the quality of all the ingredients and saves you money, too. So warm up that oven and get moving on your batch!

OLD FASHIONED OATMEAL COOKIES

1 cup raisins
1/2 cup hot water
3/4 cup shortening

1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 cup dark brown sugar
2 eggs, unbeaten
2 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1 tsp. baking soda
1 1/4 tsp. salt
1 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1/2 tsp. cloves
3 cups quick cooking oats

Soak raisins in hot water for five minutes, drain (saving liquid) and chop. Combine shortening, sugars and eggs in mixing bowl, beat until fluffy. Combine flour, soda, salt and spices, blend into sugar mixture. Mix in 1/4 cup raisin liquid (add water if necessary), oats and raisins. Chill.

Shape into balls, put on greased baking sheet, flatten with bottom of glass, lightly greased and dipped in granulated sugar. Bake in 375° oven 12-15 minutes. Remove at once to rack to cool. Makes about five dozen cookies.

Job Seminar for Women March 4

A seminar for women who want to enter or re-enter the job market is scheduled for one day—March 4—at Broadway Grossmont.

Speakers and counselors from SD Colleges Extension Programs, the Regional Occupational Program and others will be featured at the 10 a.m.-3 p.m. seminar. A fee of $6 includes lunch.

The session covers such subjects as how to use experience acquired in volunteer work; updating rusty skills; combating guilt feelings about having a job outside the home and preparing for interviews.

Seating is limited. Arrangements by phone: 465-1121, ext. 212, executive secretary.

Cinema Past, Present Paired in New Series

The Grossmont Community College District's Office of Community Education opens a series of old and not-so-old films when "Harry and Tonto" and "The Barbershop" are screened on Saturday at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in the Fine Arts Recital Hall at Grossmont College.

The 1974 production of "Harry and Tonto" won Best Actor Oscar for Art Carney.

"Barbershop" is a one-reeler starring W. C. Fields and Elsie Cavanna in a film which Fields wrote. He portrays a bumbling, carefree barber with Cavanna cast as his vegetarian and completely sober wife.

Admission is 75 cents with tickets available at the door.

Old Books Wanted

The San Diego chapter of Brandeis University's National Women's Committee is seeking donations for its annual book sale to be held in May at Mission Valley shopping center.

The committee seeks art books, children's literature, periodicals, journals and texts, "everything from encyclopedia to Playboy."

It's full steam ahead for the Navy's energy conservation program.

San Diego has the highest density of military activity of any city in the continental U.S. So it's not surprising that the Navy is SDG&E's single largest customer... or that they're veterans at energy conservation.

They started with the basics. Lights out. Heat on later in the year, off earlier. Thermostats at 68°, air conditioners at 78°. Pilot lights off during the summer. Constant monitoring of energy use. And bi-monthly up-date energy seminars.

But some of the Navy's energy saving techniques are a little more unusual. Like letting newly painted planes air dry instead of baking them. Using solar panels to heat water at the Naval Electronics Lab. Attaching heat exchangers to diesel generators on San Clemente Island and harnessing enough wasted energy to steam heat 14 buildings. And using micro-computers to determine and automate the most energy-efficient climate control for other large computers... some of the world's most advanced and sensitive.

The Navy has reduced energy consumption considerably since 1973. In spite of the Shore Establishment Realignment which swelled San Diego's Naval operations and personnel. It's an admirable program... and we're working with them to keep it ship-shape. Just like we've been working with other San Diego businesses and industries for the past five years. And just like we'd like to work with you.

SDG&E SAN DIEGO GAS & ELECTRIC COMPANY

If the Navy can do it, so can you. And we're here to help.

Cost-Free Feeders Lure Birds Worth Watching—If Bait is Right

What have old coat hangers, hubcaps, wooden salad bowls, hardware cloth and onion bags got to do with birdwatching?

Such discarded household items — if properly fashioned into feeding stations — may help you attract hundreds of colorful birds to your backyard this winter, according to the current issue of "National Wildlife" magazine.

George H. Harrison, field editor of the publication, reports that with a dozen homemade feeders and a recirculating pool of water he has lured as many as 20 different species and more than 100 birds at a time to the backyard of his Wisconsin home.

By placing his feeders at the right locations and stocking them with the proper food, Harrison has hosted and photographed such specimens as downy, hairy, and redheaded woodpeckers, brown creepers, crossbills, purple finches, and redpolls.

Suet feeders are the key to attracting some birds that the average householder rarely sees. They can be made from old coat hangers, pulled into a "diamond" shape, or from onion bags, or hardware cloth formed into a cylinder shape, with a plastic coffee lid at the bottom to hold the tallow.

Most birds eat beef suet, according to Harrison's report, but the white tallow in hanging feeders attracts some insect-eating birds, such as woodpeckers, which are not interested in seeds.

Harrison also reports that if you "regard some species as pests, you can discourage English sparrows, blackbirds, grackles, starlings, and cowbirds by feeding only sunflower seeds. The problem is this will also discourage juncos and mourning doves.

The "undesirable species prefer cracked corn, so if you buy a birdseed mixture that contains no cracked corn, you can tread the middle course," Harrison says. But "if you want to zero in on finches, nuthatches, chickadees, grosbeaks, redpolls and crossbills, stick to 100 per cent sunflower seeds."

While his homemade feeders cost nothing, Harrison says his greatest expense is the seed he buys. But he has cut down his seed bill by shopping around for bargains and buying it in 50-pound bags.

Apartment dwellers, as well as home owners, can maintain feeding stations, the article says, but the "ideal setup" is still a backyard patio station, with feeders at different levels, surrounded by trees and shrubs.

Harrison, who stocks some of his feeders in the summer as well as winter, is apparently not discouraged by raids on his station by other animals. In addition to squirrels, he has observed cottontail rabbits, raccoons and opossums at his ground feeders. He is even tolerant of a pair of chipmunks that carried 100 pounds of wild bird mixture to their underground home last fall.

TV Taken from Home

While Ann L. Gregus of 1847 La Corta circle, Lemon Grove was shopping early in the afternoon of February 10, a burglar entered her home by breaking the glass in a door and opening it from the inside.

Missing was a Panasonic television and some radio equipment. She reported the loss to be $210.

Air Pollution District Asks Arrest Powers

The San Diego County Board of Supervisors has set March 3, at 2 p.m. as the time and date for a public hearing concerning adoption of a rule granting the County Air Pollution Control District (APCD) the authority to arrest.

The Board set the public hearing date following a request from APCD. APCD Officer William Simmons said the authority was being sought to strengthen the District's enforcement program and speed up resolution of violations through the legal process.

Simmons said the new rule would enable APCD to issue citations to appear in court at a specific time, if air pollution violations are detected. Since there would be no pre-set bail schedule, court appearance would be automatic.

In the past, Simmons noted, notices of violations were issued and requests for legal action were made through the offices of City Attorney or District Attorney. Simmons said this is a lengthy process which often takes months to complete.

Under the new authority to arrest, APCD would be able to take violators into court within a few weeks. Air pollution inspectors would not have peace officer status or carry weapons, and the citation procedure would apply only to misdemeanors.

At present, Simmons said, San Diego County is the only major air pollution control district in Southern California which does not have the authority to arrest.

No Tax on VA Benefit

Recipients of benefits from the Veterans Administration are exempt from taxation and the payments need not be reported on federal income tax returns.

Major tax-exempt VA benefits include compensation, pension and educational assistance, including subsistence payments to vocational rehabilitation trainees.

Also exempt are grants to military service-disabled veterans for specially adapted homes and automobiles and clothing allowances paid to service-disabled veterans whose prosthetic devices result in undue wear and tear on clothing.

BoA Economists Predict Better Business in '76

The California economy will enjoy moderate real growth this year, but the state will continue to experience problems with jobs and prices, according to Bank of America.

BoA's projections for 1976 show a varied pattern for California industries; but for most, business is going to be considerably better. For California citizens the unemployment rate will drop and real income should rise as inflation rates moderate.

Among forecast highlights in the bank's "Economic Outlook 1976 — California Report" are:

- Inflation will drop below last year's 10 per cent rate, but will stay historically high, averaging 7.5 per cent.

- Unemployment will drop below the 10 per cent level of late 1975, averaging about 8.5 per cent. By year's end, it should be down to 8 per cent.

- Retail sales will rise some 10-12 per cent over 1975's $66 billion volume. But inflation will account for more than half the increase.

- Total personal income of Californians will grow to $152 billion, 10 per cent above 1975. Adjusted for inflation, income (in 1967 dollars) will rise to $86.1 billion from $83.6 billion.

- Automobiles and other major ticket items will outpace general consumer spending and grow at a rate almost double the overall gain in retail sales.

- Housing, which began a strong comeback in 1975, will continue to grow. Last year's 115,000 starts should grow to 150,000 in 1976.

- Visitor spending will increase as domestic and foreign tourists—with rising personal incomes — start traveling again. California's tourist industries should show a 4 per cent gain from the $2.3 billion in income earned last year.

- California farm income will remain strong, though increasing production costs, plus the effects of the prolonged drought, may push the net below 1975 levels.

Three Area Men Join Air Force

Three area residents enlisted in the Air Force recently, according to USAF recruiting Sgt. John Richardson.

Daniel C. Shepard of Spring Valley, Robert Harrison of Lemon Grove and Gilbert L. Ninness of Jamul will each report to Basic Military Training School at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio, Texas.

Upon completion of the six-week basic training, the trio will receive technical training in a special field of interest.

Shepard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Shepard of 9306 Jamacha Blvd., will study in the Security Specialist area. Shepard is a 1975 Monte Vista High graduate.

Harrison will be trained as an operating room specialist. Harrison is a four-year graduate of San Diego State U. and holds a BS in Zoology. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Harrison, live at 2369 Cypress ave., Lemon Grove.

Ninness, a 1973 Monte Vista grad, will receive training in law enforcement. He is the son of Mrs. Valerie M. Ninness of Rt. 2, Jamul.

Renter's Credit Still News to Some, Says BoE

The State Board of Equalization has predicted that many California residents will lose out on $25 to $45 because they failed to take advantage of the renter's credit in filing their 1975 state income tax.

"Many people don't know that they qualify for the refund," a Board spokesman said. "For example, persons living in mobile homes situated on rented land are entitled to the renter's refund, but are often unaware of it."

Persons who missed the credit in 1974's return can still get the credit by filing an amended 1974 State Income Tax return.

The renter's credit varies according to the individual's gross income. The credit ranges and detailed explanation of the credit are found on page 3 of the State Individual Income Tax 540 booklet.

Deadline Nears On Dog Licenses

Dog owners still have a few days to renew licenses without paying added fees, County Tax Collector James E. Jones said this week. After February 29 a $2 late charge will be added to the cost of a license.

The simplest way for an owner to renew a license is to mail in a renewal form which has been issued by his office to each owner of dogs whose licenses expired December 31. The renewal forms carry licensing information for individual dogs—including whether the dog can be licensed for another year without a new rabies vaccination. Tags will be mailed to owners who apply by mail.

Owners of dogs whose licenses have expired should contact the tax collector's office if they have not received a renewal application. The number is 236-3171.

The license fee for a male or spay is $6 for one year or $10 for two years. Rates for unspayed females are $12 and $20.

Tax Exemption Forms Mailed by Assessor

3,000 institutional property tax exemption forms were mailed from the Assessor's office last week according to County Assessor E. C. Williams.

Included in the institutional property category are churches, colleges, hospitals, retirement homes, private and parochial schools, religious retreats, cemeteries, public school leases, free libraries and museums, and veterans' organizations.

To qualify for the full property tax exemption allowed by law to these institutions, the claim forms must be completed and filed by March 15 with the Assessor's office. After March 15, claims filed late will receive only a 90% exemption.

"In past years, some claimants have been disappointed to receive only the 90% exemption when they found that their accountant, bookkeeper or attorney had set the form aside for later attention and, due to the delay, missed the deadline," Williams said.

ATTENTION !! SENIOR CITIZENS & HANDICAPPED LOW & MODERATE INCOME FAMILIES HOUSING ASSISTANCE PAYMENTS PROGRAM

Starting March 1, 1976, The San Diego County Housing Authority will accept applications for the Section 8 Housing Assistance Payments Program. This program is designed to provide RENTAL ASSISTANCE to families & individuals whose gross income does not exceed the following amounts:

NUMBER OF PERSONS IN FAMILY
Income	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Limits:	$6,600	$8,450	$9,500	$10,600	$11,250	$11,900	$12,550

This program will be operated within the unincorporated areas of the County & the cities of El Cajon, Escondido, Del Mar, Chula Vista, Imperial Beach, La Mesa, Oceanside, San Marcos & Vista.

Prospective applicants wishing to obtain housing within the City of San Diego, National City & Carlsbad should contact The Housing Authority in those cities.

Because of the limited allocation of Section 8 housing subsidies, all applications will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis. To obtain further information, telephone Monday through Friday between 8:30 a.m. & 4:00 p.m.

TAKE FIVE

By John E. Wirges

Jerry Coleman is an optimist. He keeps looking toward tomorrow, the future, the development of youth. And he sees a bright here and now for the Padres because they kind of think along with him.

Coleman, former American League All-Star infielder, a veteran of six world series, nine years in the majors and a combat pilot in two wars, has a lot of hard earned factors cranked into his judgment process.

And sporting teams, in his view, are strengthened by your investment in the future.

"Pick the best team in the National League," he says. "The Cincinnati Reds . . . right now they're about as strong as you can get. But the Reds would be delighted if three rookies came along and knocked Johnny Bench, Joe Morgan, and Pete Rose right out of their starting jobs."

An unlikely happening, to be true, but the point was well made. Any club would be delighted if the youngsters develop well enough to take a job away from a veteran in his prime.

And what do the Padres have to offer in the youth movement? What would happen if all the hopes and dreams of the front office materialize, if and when Spring Training ever gets underway? What could realistically happen at San Diego Stadium this spring and summer?

Coleman, the man dedicated to the future, has some pretty nice thoughts of an injury free, scheduled development, Padre present.

"The outfield is the biggest plus," he judges. "If Willie Davis comes to play, Johnny Grubb returns to his hitting form of '73 (he hit .311) and Dave Winfield doesn't re-injure his hand. Of the youngsters, Jerry Turner looks as if he might be the guy to chase one of the others out of the lineup . . . someday. He can hit and he can run and you can't teach that. That's talent."

The biggest question mark is behind the plate, in the Coleman view. "We've got to get constant development from Fred Kendall and Bob Davis," he said. "And a resurgence from Randy Hundley."

"Hundley played in constant pain last year. He's had operations on both knees and it hurts him to walk. Courage is his middle name and if anybody can come back from disablenents like that, he's the guy."

The promise of the future shows mostly in the infield. Not only in who's here, but who's on the way. And a trade anchored one corner that has been a problem from the start of the franchise.

Doug Rader, with an infectious grin and an irreverent smile, comes over from Houston in a trade that cements third base.

The rap on Rader is he strikes out too often, but he has an excellent glove, is always hustling and makes all the plays. And he'll keep you loose on the bench, in the clubhouse and on the road.

"Bill Almon figures to be the short stop of the future," says Coleman, "So let's put him there now. If he can hit .260, he could lead off forever."

"Tito Fuentes still makes the double play better than anyone around so pencil him in at second. And Mike Ivie could be the secret ingredient."

"If he comes along as fast as he did last year, he could turn the whole ball club around. So on our dream team, put him at first."

Talk about the pitching staff and Coleman's eyes light up. And it's all because of Randall Leo Jones.

"He reminds me so much of Whitey Ford it's uncanny," says the Padre broadcaster. "They throw alike, think alike . . . they even look alike. Ford was 100 years baseball wise when he was 20. So, it seems, is Jones. And he turned it around in one year."

"Now if one of the other kids (Coleman, who remembers presidents before Roosevelt, insists that anybody under 30 is a kid) can come through like that there's no telling where this Padre crew might go."

But he does have ideas of who could pull it off and what it could mean.

"There are three or four kids that could break loose and pull down 15 to 18 wins," he says. "Dan Spillner (5-13 last year), Brent Strom (8-8) or Bill Grief (back in the starting string after a 4-6 experiment in relief), any one of them is capable. They all have the talent. And if one or two come through, the Padres could finish as high as second place."

And if Andy Messersmith stays a free agent and signs with the Padres?

"Then you're talking about the pennant," says the man of the future.

Indoor Games Tape Readied for Ch. 6

Taped highlights of the 10th annual Indoor Games at the Sports Arena Saturday, will be telecast this week on Saturday over TV Ch. 6 at 11:30 p.m.

The 10th annual event, staged by Al Franken, attracted more than 11,000 fans.

Viewers can expect to see Dwight Stones jump 7-6½; Thom Hunt's high schooler's mile record of 4:02.7 and Lorna Forde's 500 record of 1:03.4.

A historic first was five runners breaking the mile in less than 4 minutes. Rod Dixon made it in 3:56.8, Filbert Bayi in 3:57.5, Paul Cummings in 3:57.7, Wilson Waigwa in 3:58.9 and Ken Popejaw in 3:59.4.

Aztec Grid List Grows Gruesome

The Mountaineers of West Virginia U. have been added to the S.D. State U. 1979 football schedule.

The Mountaineers finished with a 10-2 mark and a victory over N. Carolina State in the Peach Bowl last year.

They also beat California (28-10) and Pitt (17-14).

The Aztec intersectional schedule through 1980: 1977—Arizona, Utah State, Florida State; 1978 — Washington State, Iowa State, Utah State, Miami (Fla.), New Mexico; 1979—Missouri, New Mexico, Wisconsin, Miami (Fla.), Utah State, Arizona, West Virginia; 1980—Washington State, Missouri, Wisconsin, Oklahoma State, Miami (Fla.), and New Mexico.

WW of Sports Events to Open Ascot Season

GARDENA — J. C. Agajanian, who recently signed a 10-year lease at Ascot Park, will re-open the multi-purpose facility for a pre-season ABC TV Wide World of Sports spectacular, Sunday, 1 p.m.

The taping for later showing will include a celebrity demolition derby with 1970 or later-model cars, a Western World Championship Figure-8 race, and a chain race.

The celebrity derby, staged along the lines of the Agajanian-Evel Knievel extravaganza in the Coliseum three years ago will feature racing figures like Parnelli Jones and Billy Vukovich and entertainment luminaries like Kent McCord of "Adam 12" and Toby Halichl, the actor-producer of "Gone in 60 Seconds."

In the world championship Figure-8 event, the fledgling F.E.A.R. (Figure-8 Auto Racing) organization will supervise the open competition event in which drivers from all western tracks are being invited.

The chain race, in which 10 teams of two cars linked by 10-foot chains will race the Figure-8 course, is a first for Wide World.

Other pre-season events at Ascot will include the return of the American Motorcycle Association 100-lap TT, March 21, and a United States Auto Club midget event, Saturday night, March 27. The regular season opens April 2.

Racing Tripleheader Booked at Ascot Park

GARDENA — Two separate battles are forecast when J. C. Agajanian re-opens Ascot Park with a celebrity late-model demolition derby as the climax of a tripleheader program this Sunday afternoon, at 1 p.m.

One contest pits motor-racing stars against a fun-loving group from the entertainment world.

The other is a battle of the sexes. Leading the professional auto contingent are 1963 Indy 500 winner Parnelli Jones and three 1976 United States Auto Club championship drivers: Billy Vukovich, Duane (Pancho) Carter, and Agajanian's own 1976 Indy entrant, John Martin.

They will be matched against a group from the entertainment world including television stars Lyle Waggoner and Kent McCord, rock star Ricky Nelson, and actor-producer Toby Halichl, who played the lead in his own auto theft thriller, "Gone in 60 Seconds."

All the males will have to fight off a trio of feminine pilots including Shirley (Cha Cha) Muldowney of drag-racing fame, Marion Busia, Halichl's movie co-star, and Joy Wilkerson.

In all, 16 contestants will line up in the demolition feature staged as part of the extravaganza Agajanian is producing for the public and ABC cameras of the "Wide World of Sports."

The program also includes two 30-lap Figure-8 main events featuring the stars of Ascot's own association and other California tracks.

A chain race, composed of 10 teams — two cars each on the Figure-8 course completes the program.

3-Game Homestand for Mariners

The WHA San Diego Mariners move into the final match of a six-game road trip Friday at Phoenix before heading home for three straight contests — March 2, 4 and 6.

General manager-coach Ron Ingram has had to shuffle his lines while a host of his players were battling the flu but the team is weathering that spell and should be in fairly good shape by the time it returns.

Defensemen Brent Hughes and Kevin Morrison have been performing well both at the blue line and in point production. Hughes has six goals and 24 assists for 30 points, his finest offensive season since his first pro campaign in 1963-64.

Morrison, the WHA's top scoring defender last year, currently has 53 points, 11 behind Quebec rear guard J. C. Tremblay, and has tallied in 11 of his last 13 outings.

Celebrity Golf Leaves San Diego

The star-studded Celebrity-Amateur golf tournament previously held at La Costa and later at Murietta Hot Springs, has been transferred to the Sahara Hotel's facilities in Las Vegas, it was announced by chairman of the 15-year old event, Monty Hall.

The 1976 event will be held June 10-13 with the Comedians' Classic format on June 11.

A Care-a-Thon dinner on June 12 will benefit San Diego's Care Village, a facility for severely handicapped youngsters which is near SD's Mission Bay.

San Diegan Milton Blackstone, founder of the event, continues to serve as executive director.

Vilas, Tanner Set For La Costa Play

Guillermo Vilas, Grand Prix champion of tennis, and Roscoe Tanner, 10th ranked player in the world, have been booked to join Jimmy Connors and Ilie Nastase in La Costa's Independent Players Assn.'s finals March 12-21.

Vilas, ranked among the world's top five, earned $249,287 in tournament winnings last season. He easily outdistanced such players as Manuel Orantes, Bjorn Borg and Arthur Ashe to win the 1975 Grand Prix which is based on year-round superior performances.

Where Vilas trailed Connors was in competition against the top ten ranked players, Connors winning 9 of 11 matches against select opposition and Vilas taking only 6 of 16.

Matches will be played both afternoon (at 1 p.m.) and evening (7 p.m.) Tuesday through Friday. Saturday's singles finals will start at 1 o'clock as will Sunday's doubles finals and playoff for third place.

La Costa has added 1,000 seats to boost capacity past 5,000 but there's a heavy demand for the better locations.

Ticket prices, same as in previous years, are $4 and $6 Tuesday through Thursday, and $6 and $8 Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Little center Andre Lacroix, all-time league scorer, is eighth this season with 79 points and leads the Mariners by 12 points over teammate Ray Adduono.

Mariner defenseman Jim Hargreaves, injured February 10, may be out for the remainder of the season with ligament damage in a knee. X-Rays are to be taken this

Soccer Seminar Only for Women

The San Diego Jaws professional soccer team will hold a special weekly soccer clinic for women only general manager Paul Deese said.

Each Tuesday night, 7-8 p.m., Jaws coaches and players will lecture, demonstrate and participate in teaching interested women how to better their soccer skills. The clinic will be held at Ocean Beach's Robb Field and is free.

The April 4 game against the San Jose Earthquakes, (7:30 p.m. at Aztec Bowl) will be "Tribute to Women in Soccer" night. Two of the top teams from the Peninsula Women's Soccer Assn. will play a preliminary game at 6 p.m. All women who bring a male escort who purchased a reserved ticket will receive their ticket free of charge.

S.D. Sailor Wins $22,216 on Dogs

Tijuana — Janurio P. Ibay, a member of the U.S. Navy, stationed in San Diego, collected $22,216.80 for being the only person to select six winning dogs in the Caliente 49er handicapping contest on a night which proved to be a lucky one for him — Friday, Feb. 13.

Using a multiple ticket worth $144, Ibay won the night's major award of $20,685.60 and consolation shares amounting to $1,531.20 to account for his total winnings at the Greyhound Center.

A native of the Philippines, Ibay included on his winning ticket two long shots—Coins Again ($18.00) in the fifth race and Oshkosh Surf Fire ($11.20) in the sixth.

week to determine if surgery is required.

The Mariners will host New England on March 2 and 4, and Minnesota, March 6, with a bevy of promotions planned as added attractions.

March 2 will be Family Night, with all adult members of a family paying the regular price and children, 16 years and under, paying $1. It will also be Jack-In-The-Box Win Night, with a free Hamburger Deluxe for all persons attending if the Mariners defeat New England.

In addition, Grialva Chevrolet is giving away World Hockey Association puck banks to the first 1,000 persons through the gates.

March 4 is Team Picture Night, with a free, color team picture given to everyone attending. It will also be Ladies' Night, with all females admitted for one-half price.

The Mariners are also offering a $3 discount package if fans purchase both the March 2 and 4 tickets in the $6.50, $5.50 or $4.50 price categories.

Book Outlines Teeth Care

Is painting your teeth and gums with green food coloring a part of your regular toothbrush routine? Or do you chew a little red tablet?

Sound strange? Well, either method is effective in helping you see how good you are with the dental floss and toothbrush.

To explain and illustrate this whole routine to you, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has a new booklet called "Rx for Sound Teeth." You can get a single free copy by writing to Consumer Information Center, Dept. 89, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Plaque is sticky bacteria that can cause decay and gum diseases. The trouble is you can't see it. The food coloring or the disclosure tablets stain the plaque so you know where to work.

The hardest place to get rid of plaque is between the teeth. So you need to use dental floss or tape regularly. Work it between the teeth, then rinse.

There are yet the surfaces of the teeth. Now your toothbrush comes on the scene. Fluorides in toothpastes help make teeth resistant to decay. Use any free style brushing stroke that is comfortable, but don't scrub vigorously back and forth. Rotary or short back and forth motions work well. Then rinse.

To get rid of the remaining germs in your mouth, brush your tongue. Then rinse.

Youthful Criminals

Forty-five per cent of the persons arrested for serious crimes in the United States in 1974 were under 18 years of age.

Persons under 15 made up 19 per cent of these arrests.

A. Alan Post Urges $162 Million Cut In Governor's Budget

Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post has recommended cuts totaling more than $162 million in Governor Brown's proposed $12.6 billion state budget for 1976-77. When coupled with recommended augmentations, there results a net savings of some $104 million.

Among the items which Post recommended for cuts:

$12.5 million from the urban parks program.

$1.5 million in state monies for Department of Fish and Game activities designed to be self-supporting through licenses and fees.

$3.4 million in the community colleges Educational Opportunities Program, maintaining it at present levels.

$10 million in expenditures for childcare programs.

$22 million in Early Childhood Education expansion.

$17 million in General Services for construction of new state buildings.

$96,000 reduction in the Fair Political Practices Commission.

$354,000 reduction in the postcard registration budget of the Secretary of State.

The list was compiled by State Sen. John Stull.

Congress Opposes Cut In Impact Aid Funding

Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin (D-San Diego) was instrumental in the defeat earlier this month of a House amendment to cut $97 million from the federal impact school aid program. Van Deerlin said the action "saved at least $12 million and as much as $16 million" in payments for San Diego County school systems.

Actual loss to the impact aid program nationally would have been more than $400 million (out of a total appropriation of $680 million) if the amendment had been adopted, Van Deerlin said, "because there would not be enough money left to make payments required by law to recipient districts. Instead of partial payments in a second round of impact aid grants, the districts would get nothing."

Last year impact aid programs provided more than $20 million for San Diego County school systems.

Current entitlements include $300,000 for the La Mesa-Spring Valley School District and $130,000 for the Lemon Grove School District.

Lemon Grove District budgeted $50,000 for impact aid this year, according to school superintendent Dr. Robert Sutton. Impact aid funds are traditionally underestimated in making up the budget, he said, because there are yearly attempts to limit the funding.

Grove Family to Move Into Experimental SV Solar Home

By Lee Karalis

The new home of local resident John Linn is the focal point of a two year research project in Spring Valley. The experiment, funded totally by the San Diego Gas and Electric Company will assess the technical and economic feasibility of heating and cooling buildings by the use of solar energy.

John Linn was a member of the Lemon Grove School Board until he resigned this week. He is presently a business assistant for the Chula Vista Elementary School District.

$17,000 Gift

The Linns' new $70,000 house at 3387 Rancho Miguel rd. in the Vista Cielo area of Spring Valley has been equipped with a $17,000 solar climate control system that will provide heating, cooling and hot water to the 2,600 square foot residence.

SDG&E will monitor and evaluate the system for two years under an agreement with the Linns. At the end of that time, the system will become the property of the homeowners.

Should the system prove inefficient, SDG&E will remove it and install a conventional heat pump at no expense to the Linns.

"The data we obtain from monitoring this house during the next two years will demonstrate the level of performance that can be expected from this and similarly designed solar systems," said John E. Hamrick, vice president of SDG&E.

The solar control system in the five-bedroom, two-story home will utilize a two-tank (30,000 gallon) system for hot and cold water storage. Auxiliary heating in winter will be provided by an electrical water heater.

Cooling in summer is furnished by re-radiation of water to the night sky from the rooftop solar collectors and by a water chiller running during off-peak periods of electricity usage.

Special double-glazed insulated windows have been installed to reduce energy loss and maintain ideal interior temperature.

In the design of the solar demonstration house system SDG&E hopes to show a 70 to 80 per cent savings of the energy required for heating and cooling.

Linn commented that the utility was concerned that the owners of the experimental home use the system to its fullest. "They don't have to worry," he said. "With four children, two of them teenage girls, everything will get used plenty."

SOLAR EXPERIMENTS — The Linns pose at the entrance way of their new solar-heated home in the Vista Cielo housing subdivision in Spring Valley. SDG&E furnished the $17,000 solar heating system for the home at no cost to the Linns in return for a two-year study of the effectiveness of the system.

Government funding for research and development of solar energy rose 274 per cent between fiscal 1975 and 1976, according to SDG&E. The U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration has estimated that by the year 2000, one per cent of the nation's electricity will come from the sun and by 2020 that figure will increase to 15 per cent.

"We're moving into a new era of energy use," Linn said. "I'm convinced that in the next five or ten years we'll have to give strong thought to the use of solar energy in public as well as private facilities."

The Linns plan to move into their new home in early March.

A Look at Past Issues

Back Pages

A look at the pages of this newspaper twenty years ago reveals some of the interesting contrasts between then and now. This column highlights some of the items that appeared in this newspaper at this time two decades ago.

Approximately one-fourth of the area's 33,107 voters went to the polls to decide on a 17 million dollar improvement program for Lemon Grove-Spring Valley water district. The vote for "Yes" on the plan won 87 per cent approval over the "No" votes.

Free chicks were being given away by a Lemon Grove Feed and Supply store. Ten chicks were available with a purchase of $1.00 or more of chick starter.

Movie stars of the day were featured in a column for young people in the Review/Bulletin 20 years ago this week. The writer, a teenager, was dreaming about who he would like to see teaching classes to local high school students. English—Rock Hudson and Natalie Wood; Science — Sherre North and James Dean; Language—Gina Lollibrigida and Gonzalez Gonzalez; Chemistry — Mr. Peepers; Music — Doris Day and Liberace; Speech—Dennis Hopper and Francis; P.E.—Marilyn Monroe and Johnny Weissmuller; Drivers Ed—Liz Taylor and Marlon Brando; Modern Dance—Kim Novak and Lassie!

Many of the above names are currently with us and still large box office attractions. Others have been all but forgotten. But several, namely Marilyn Monroe and James Dean have since become legends.

The prices keep going up and it's disheartening to continue to scan the advertising campaigns in the Review/Bulletin two decades in the past. A large basket of tomatoes could be purchased for 23 cents, a vacuum cleaner with attachments sold for $49.95, and coffee was still only a nickel a cup.

Two Local People Are CF Trustees

The S.D. County Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation elected officers and board members for their 21st year of activity in the community. Two local people were elected.

Ralph J. Longfellow was re-elected to a second term as president. Other members of the Executive Committee are Gary Beckstead, 1st vice-president and campaign chairman; Mrs. Freddie Buchanan, second vice-president and membership chairman; Mrs. Robert D. Smith, Jr., secretary; and J. W. Sutton, treasurer.

Among those elected to serve a two-year term as trustees was S.D. Fire Chief Dee Rogers who lives in Spring Valley.

Among those re-elected for another term as trustee was Roger Talman, operator of the pharmacy at Hazlip's Drug store in Lemon Grove.

Noted Judges Due For 'Law Week'

California Supreme Court Justice Stanley Mosk will be the speaker at luncheon during the San Diego County Bar Assn.'s observance of Law Week April 26-May 1.

Mosk will speak at the group's traditional Law Day luncheon on April 26 at El Cortez hotel.

The annual "Day in Court" program will be May 1 with open houses at courthouse downtown, in El Cajon and Chula Vista 10 a.m.-1 p.m.

Attorneys will be available as speakers at schools, service clubs and community organizations. Programs are available through the bar offices at 232-6739.

Science Writer Speaks

Ray Bradbury, noted science fiction and fantasy author, will speak at USD tonight at 8 in Camino Theatre. Admission is $2; students $1, and tickets are available at the door only.

Bradbury has published over 500 articles, stories, poems, plays, screenplays and novels. His stories have appeared in science fiction and fantasy magazines, as well as such periodicals as the Saturday Evening Post and the New Yorker.

Some of Bradbury's most popular books include "Dandelion Wine," "Fahrenheit 451," "The Illustrated Man," "The Martian Chronicles," and "I Sing the Body Electric."

Monte Vista Teacher In Supervisor's Race

Ivan Huyser, 45, a teacher of American government and economics at Monte Vista High school, has entered the race for County supervisor — the post to be left vacant by Supervisor Dick Brown.

Huyser ran against Senator John Stull in 1973 on the Republican ticket, and was defeated.

"As a supervisor," Huyser said, "I will ask for a four-year leave of absence from my teaching job."

He said that economic trends have dictated that the next supervisor be accountable. He notes that taxes have risen substantially and seniors have been reduced to near penury — That crime has run rampant and planned growth in the east county is a necessity.

As a supervisor, Huyser said he would concern himself with these matters — and keep the lines of communication open while doing so. He describes himself as a "bitterly honest" candidate.

John Philp Heads

County Health Dept.

Dr. John R. Philp, 57, has been named Director of the San Diego County Department of Public Health, replacing Dr. J. B. Askew, retired. The appointment was announced by Frank Panarisi, County Health Care Agency administrator.

Dr. Philp is presently health officer for Orange County, a post he has held since 1967. He will begin his new duties in San Diego March 15.

Panarisi praised Dr. Donald Tamras, who has served as acting director of the Department since the retirement of Askew in January, 1975. Dr. Tamras will now return to his permanent position as assistant director of the Department.

Swimming's a barrel of fun. It can also be a barrel of danger, if you don't know the fundamentals—if you don't know how to take care of yourself in the water.

That's why Red Cross swimming, lifesaving and water safety courses are offered all over the country.

We want everybody—even little kids—to know The Facts of Life in the water. Since we began to teach swimming, we've issued a grand total of

LG Merchant Questions Supervisor's Tastes

Dear Editor:

The enclosed letter is a copy of one I sent the County regarding the recent additional amendments to the Sign Ordinance.

County Board of Supervisors:

I'm a busy businessman and have little time to be running down to county offices and fussing with county government everytime they do something I don't think is fair.

However, the Board of Supervisors has done it again with this amendment to the sign ordinance.

I'm going to have to hire help and take precious time in running my business to attend hearings of the Board on this amendment that once again runs counter to the fair treatment of the businessmen.

I urge, however, that you hold public hearings on this matter and I will attend to voice my opinion regarding the matter.

Mr. Brown was quoted as saying the signs, "... don't look good and should be done tastefully."

Well, Mr. Brown, I don't think your new big car is tasteful. Particular in view of the problem of energy, the public buying smaller and less consuming cars, and attempting to live with smaller budgets and larger gas bills. However your big car, guzzling large amounts of gasoline and polluting the air is not tasteful and I won't oppose an ordinance banning untasteful cars and big cars.

Would that be fair?

Well, it's no more fair than you continually pushing the businessman, behind his back, into obeying the "taste" commission and "good looking" arbiter who would demand everyone look good and have taste.

Grove Men Held In Drug 'Bust'

Two Lemon Grove men were among five east county residents taken into custody in a narcotics raid February 10 in Lakeside.

Howard E. Zellers, 27, of 1716 Skyline dr. and William J. Constantino, 22, of 1415 La Corta circle were the Lemon Grove men arrested at a raid at 11383 Woodside ave., Lakeside by members of the County's Integrated Narcotics Task Force.

Eight ounces of cocaine were seized in the raid. Two autos were confiscated by the officials.

Others in custody are Paul W. Freer, 20; Nita D. Clardy, 18, both of Lakeside and Ruben A. Gonzales, 21, of La Mesa.

All were charged with selling cocaine and conspiring to sell cocaine.

The Narcotics Task Force is made up of officers from the Sheriff's department, the S.D. police department and the U.S. Department of Drug Enforcement Administration.

The arrest followed an investigation in which an undercover officer agreed to buy a half pound of cocaine for $10,000.

Amtrak Improvements Seen by Van Deerlin

Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-San Diego, told Congress that the Administration can't be serious in proposing to cancel service on San Diego-Los Angeles and 18 other routes served by the National Railroad Passenger Corp. (Amtrak).

"With the mounting problems of fuel waste and air pollution associated with other transportation modes, the passenger train should be loom- ing larger than ever," Van Deerlin said, in a statement prepared for delivery to the House Transportation and Commerce subcommittee.

"They're Kidding" "That's why I think the Administration is really kidding when it talks of cutting back Amtrak."

The San Diego Congressman, who often rides the train himself, said he has a special interest in the San Diego-Los Angeles run because it terminates in his congressional district. But he added that "equally strong cases could be made for preserving railroad passenger service in most other parts of the country."

Amtrak has specified San Diego-Los Angeles as among the 19 routes it would have to drop if cuts proposed in its operating budget by the Administration are finally adopted. Final decision on the funding that will be allowed Amtrak is up to Congress.

Could Cut Hour on Trip Van Deerlin said the San Diego-Los Angeles service has been well received despite in-

Finch Raps Tunney For Lack of Action

Robert Finch, Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, has blasted the Senate Democratic leadership and John Tunney for allowing Senator James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) "to go for almost a decade without a formal meeting of the Subcommittee on Immigration and Naturalization."

Finch, who is running for the Senate seat held by John Tunney, said it's "disgraceful that the leadership of the Senate would tolerate a Subcommittee consuming over two million tax dollars and never hold a meeting."

Finch charged, "John Tunney, as a member of the Judiciary committee, should be demanding action in the Senate, but as usual he is demonstrating his complete absence of leadership qualities. California and the nation can no longer afford Senators and Senate subcommittees that won't do their jobs."

"There are serious problems in this country, particularly with regard to illegal aliens, which that subcommittee should be addressing," Finch declared.

In California there are at least 1.5 million illegal aliens," Finch noted, "and they are coming across our borders at a rate of more than 20,000 each month. Many have been here as many as twenty years in constant fear of deportation, without any rights to fair wages, old age or medical benefits. In California we are on the verge of enormous economic and social problems created by illegal aliens and Sen. Eastland and the Democratic leadership of the Senate are failing to act."

convenient scheduling and slow trains.

He said the 150-minute trip could be shortened by at least an hour if 10 unprotected grade crossings were eliminated or made less hazardous. He also noted the current three-day round trips will be augmented soon by two additional trips a day underwritten by the counties of San Diego, Los Angeles and Orange, "thus demonstrating faith in rail passenger transportation."

Van Deerlin said that if the Government insists on cutting support for rail passenger service, it should look first at long-distance routes which he described as less competitive than short-haul routes like San Diego-Los Angeles. The local line carried 353,000 riders last year, he added, and has proven itself to be "an attractive alternative" to the private car and commercial airliner.

Boney to Open Office Saturday

Stan Boney, candidate for the seat to be vacated by 2nd District Supervisor Dick Brown, will have an open house ceremony at his campaign headquarters 3-5 p.m. Saturday.

The office is at 8903 La Mesa blvd. opposite Drew Ford's Used Car facility.

Boney's committee said that any person with an interest in better local government would find chatting with the candidate a refreshing experience.

Boney, meanwhile, announced that Gene French had accepted the chairmanship of his campaign and Craig Engstrand had become treasurer.

Coffee and punch will be served at the open house Saturday.

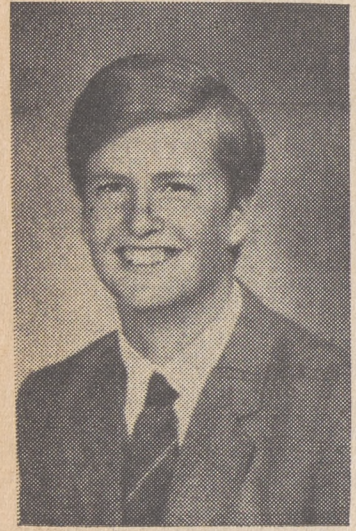

Lemon Grove Youth Survives Earthquake In Guatemala Village

John Earhart, a Lemon Grove youth serving with the Peace Corps in Guatemala, since June, 1975, is safe although 66 of the 200 people in the village he was serving died in the earthquake earlier this month.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Earhart of 2534 Crestline dr., Lemon Grove. He attended Mt. Miguel High school and Sacramento College before being assigned by the Peace Corps in September to the village of Santa Apolonia, near Guatemala City.

In a letter to his parents dated February 9, he described how dozens of bodies were taken from the rubble—one a beautiful 17-year old Indian girl who had lunched at the place he lived the day before the catastrophe.

"Right now I'm sitting in what used to be my livingroom," he wrote. "Everytime I enter this heap I wonder how I crawled out." The entire building collapsed during the 3 a.m. quake.

His assignment in Santa Apolonia was to teach the Indians farming and soil conservation. As an extra assignment he devised a nursery in which 3,000 tree seedlings had been started in pots. They were scheduled for planting in the spring by the males of the village. Now the plants will have to be watered and cared for until the people rebuild their village.

He will stay and help, he indicated.

Earhart, was chosen in September to represent 47 Peace Corps members in the area. Later, he traveled to Nicaragua with a Peace Corps executive to talk to members there.

His assignment in the village is for another year-and-a-half and he has been assured by officials that he will remain in Santa Apolonia to help the villagers rebuild their homes and their lives.

Help Coming for Businessmen

Government Forms Reduction Is Aim of Paperwork Commission

There are 10,000 different federal forms which individuals and businessmen must fill out, and every year the government sends out 10 billion copies of those forms — at a cost of $40 billion for printing, mailing, processing, filing and storage. And it takes a small army of 100,000 lawyers to write, review and enforce the federal regulations behind those forms.

To cut down on this "flood of bureaucratic red tape and paperwork," Senator Alan Cranston (D., Calif.) told a group of area businessmen, "Congress established the Federal Paperwork Commission and gave it two years in which to examine government policies and procedures and to recommend changes to reduce paperwork, forms and reports. It was not reported that the new commission would send out forms to check on forms not being required."

"The American businessman, especially the small businessman, bears the major burden," Cranston said. "It's estimated that government paperwork costs the business community $18 billion a year in time and manpower to maintain the necessary records and fill out the required reports."

Cranston, speaker at the Santa Cruz Area Chamber of Commerce, said one of the first things the Commission did was to run a computer check on federal laws. They found there are more than 12,000 different laws requiring individuals and businessmen to file reports with the government!

"Many government forms and many federal reporting requirements are necessary," Cranston said. "Without vital information, government would grind to a halt. And without proper supervision over how the taxpayers' money is used, there would be even more waste than there is now."

"But there is obviously plenty of room for improvement. The average citizen fills out at least 50 forms a year from federal, state and local governments."

"In many instances he fills them out with feelings of frustration and anger, and sometimes in astonishment and disbelief, at the extent of government prying into private lives and private businesses."

"The average American confronts a seemingly mindless stream of unnecessary, repetitive forms and frivolous requests for information."

One proposal is to require businessmen to file employee withholding tax reports annually, instead of quarterly as at present, "would save small businessmen more than $275 million a year — and eliminate a stack of forms two miles high!" Cranston said.

"Eventually, most of these costs are passed on to the consumer. Sooner or later the public — whether as consumer or as taxpayer or both — gets stuck."

The situation is so bad, Cranston said, that Senator Russell Long (D., La.), chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, has proposed that taxpayers be reimbursed for filling out government forms.

"Senator Long has proposed that the taxpayer be awarded a refundable income tax credit — not a reduction, but a refundable credit — for each item of information on any form or document he must file with the federal government," Cranston said.

"Under his bill, an individual would get a tax credit of 10 cents per question or per item of information, and not less than $1 per form!"

"A 20-question form would entitle an individual to a $2 credit, a 30-item form, a $3 credit, and so forth. The amount of credit allowable would be printed on each form or document, so the taxpayer would know how much to claim at the end of the year."

22-Mile Jaunt

Cohelan to Run To Own Picnic

Democratic assembly candidate Tim Cohelan, 31, will begin "running" for the state legislature on March 6 by traversing the 77th Assembly District. He seeks the seat vacated by Assemblyman Bob Wilson, who is now a candidate for State Senate.

To emphasize the size of the 77th District, the diversity of its constituents, and the need for stamina and energy in the California legislature, Cohelan will run from the western most boundary of the legislative district — Interstate 5 in Clairemont — to the eastern most boundary of El Cajon — a distance of 22 miles.

Cohelan's run will conclude with a picnic and rally around noon in John F. Kennedy Park in El Cajon. Friends and supporters are invited to meet the candidate at the end of the trek.

Cohelan, a distance runner, is a member of the San Diego Track Club. He runs 5 miles each day to gear up for the regular AAU sponsored 26-mile marathons in which he often participates. He is an attorney and former aide to U. S. Senator Alan Cranston. Cranston is also a runner.

Chacon's Gala Draws Throng

An estimated 500 persons showed up at the open house festivities of Assemblyman Peter Chacon's new campaign headquarters Saturday at 5106 Federal blvd. at Euclid.

Not only did his campaign offices overflow but so did the parking lot, creating a small traffic crisis from time to time.

The free hotdogs were eaten early and more had to be obtained. The music was good — in keeping with the happy mood of those who attended the gala celebration Chacon had programmed.

"It is rewarding — and memorable," Chacon said as he joined the guests who moved from the crowded offices out to the warm sunshine of the parking lot.

Mexican art and jewelry displays attracted attention, too. At least one other candidate for public office (not Chacon's) seemed perplexed. "How does he do it?" he seemed to ask as he viewed the turnout.

Most open houses of this sort draw a handful of people — mostly sponsors and relatives.

Chacon, a Democrat, faces a Democratic opponent in the primary election in June and a Democrat in the general.

Political observers see Chacon as an easy winner.

Batteries Lost At S.V. Beer Bar

Lightning struck twice at the Outpost.

James Everett Corbett, a patron at the Outpost Tavern at 652 Grand ave., Spring Valley, told sheriff's deputies that someone had taken the battery from his Chevy Nova while he was enjoying refreshments inside.

When Betty Jean King, a barmaid of the establishment, entered her T-Bird to head for home, she, too, learned that the battery had been taken from her car.

The batteries were taken before midnight on February 18 and each victim claimed the loss to be $50.

Two Bikes Stolen

While Dorothy M. Cords, of 984 Gillespie dr., in Spring Valley, was pursuing her daily routine, someone took two 10-speed bicycles from her garage, she told sheriff's deputies on February 16.

The loss, she said, was $225.

Compactors Missing

Compacting devices worth $470 were taken from a vacant house under construction by the McKee Construction Co. at 4321 McDonald st., in San Diego on February 17, Richard A. McKee reported to the sheriff's department.
